The Stanford Center for International Development (SCID) has established a Memorial Award and Lecture Series to celebrate the life and accomplishments of Huang Lian, who was a doctoral student from the People's Republic of China. He enrolled in the Economics Department at Stanford University in the fall of 1997 after completing a Master's degree from the Graduate School of the People's Bank of China. Talented and diligent, Huang Lian came to the United States to seek higher professional training, and planned a career in China working on economic policy. In June 1999, he died in a tragic accident. SCID founded a lecture series as a memorial.

The sixteenth annual event will take place at Stanford on April 28, 2016. Please join us for a lecture by Professor Barry Eichengreen, Professor of Economics and Political Science, Department of Economics, University of Berkeley. Professor Eichengreen will be the invited recipient of the Huang Lian Award and will deliver the Huang Lian Memorial address, entitled Renminbi Internationalization in Light of Recent Events.

Barry Eichengreen is the George C. Pardee and Helen N. Pardee Professor of Economics and Professor of Political Science at the University of California, Berkeley, where he has taught since 1987. He is a Research Associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research (Cambridge, Massachusetts) and Research Fellow of the Centre for Economic Policy Research (London, England). In 1997-98 he was Senior Policy Advisor at the International Monetary Fund. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences (class of 1997). Professor Eichengreen is the convener of the Bellagio Group of academics and economic officials and chair of the Academic Advisory Committee of the Peterson Institute of International Economics. He has held Guggenheim and Fulbright Fellowships and has been a fellow of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences (Palo Alto) and the Institute for Advanced Study (Berlin). He is also the recipient of a doctor honoris causa from the American University in Paris.

Thursday, April 28, 2016
Reception 4:30 pm | Lecture 5:00 pm

John A. and Cynthia Fry Gunn Building
366 Galvez Street
Stanford, CA 94305

RSVP here or to Lauren Lee (cllee@stanford.edu) by April 14, 2016